Two Negro men were killed over the weekend in accidents involving Missouri Pacific trains and a Fulton Negro burned to death in Texas.

The body of Mose Aaron Ware, 56, of Hampton, Ark. was found along the right-of-way Sunday afternoon, six miles west of Hope. Apparently he had fallen from a train. Deputy Coroner Dr. Forney Holt said the man had been dead a minimum of four hours when found. He said there was no evidence of violence and death was due to the man falling from the moving train.

Early Saturday morning Dave Duffie, about 55, was killed when hit by Missouri Pacific Train No. 25, almost in the town of Fulton. Sheriff Jimmie Griffin said Duffie and his wife were crossing the track. She jumped to safety. Crew men stopped the train and found Duffie's body on the right-of-way. The west bound train was moving very slowly, the Sheriff said. Duffie's wife ran and the Sheriff was unable to talk to her until later in the day. The train was delayed about an hour.

Hope Police Department reported that a 23-year-old Fulton Negro listed as Walter Lee Riven burned to death over the weekend at Wichita Falls, Texas. Details could not be learned immediately. Wichita Falls police contacted the local officers to establish identification. Hope officers said Riven's mother, Celia Riven, lives on Fulton Rt. 1. There was no indication whether the body will be returned to Fulton.

Concession at World's Fair

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Little Rock real estate developer R. Mike Butner says he has secured one of the two exclusive souvenir concessions at the Seattle World's Fair April 21 through October 21.

Butner, the developer of three large shopping centers in the Little Rock area, said he obtained the franchise after a trip to Seattle last November. He said he was told that several hundred persons had applied for the concession.

Butner said his concession would be situated in front of the fair's food center, where 40,000 persons are expected to eat daily. Fair officials anticipate that 100,000 persons a day will walk by the souvenir shop.

More than 10 million persons are expected to visit the $80 million project located on 74 acres overlooking Puget Sound.

Butner said he was getting the souvenirs from factories in Germany, Holland, France and Sweden.

Parkin State Printing Deal Ruled Invalid

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Supreme Court upheld today a Pulaski Chancery Court decision invalidating 15 state printing contracts held by Parkin Printing Co. whose president is a member of the state Highway Commission.

The 5-2 decision returned by Justice Ed McFaddin said the 15 contracts must be readvertised and new bids taken. Harry Parkin, the printing company's president, said he was "not yet ready to make his decision" on whether to relinquish his membership on the commission or give up the state printing business.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus declined immediate comment but said he would have a written statement later.

Parkin has 17 days in which to ask for a rehearing. Sec. of State Nancy Hall, who issues such contracts, said she would wait the 17 days before taking any action in the matter.

"Today's majority opinion stated there is no ambiguity in the plain language (of the state constitution)," McFaddin wrote. "The constitution says what it means and means what it says and we are sworn to follow it."

"The original suit was filed by Arkansas Printing and Lithographing Co., a Parkin competitor, which contends it should be awarded the contracts as second low bidder."

In invalidating the contracts worth an estimated $988,000, Chancellor Murray O. Reed held the Parkin Co. cannot hold such contracts because of the position its president holds with the state. McFaddin upheld Reed's contentions and further wrote: "No member or officer of any department of the government shall in any way be interested in such contracts."

Parkin's was notified of the court's decision by its attorneys. The Parkin contracts were among 60 let in 1961 for a two-year period.

Parkin commented today that the decision may have more far-reaching effects than are immediately apparent.

Mrs. Hall said it would take over a month for new bids to be awarded because of a 30-day waiting period which must be observed after such bids are advertised.

Snow, Sleet Again Strike the Midwest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Another snow and sleet storm hit sections of the Midwest today, dumping another blanket of white across the snow-covered midlands.

Wet weather also was in prospect for most of the eastern half of the nation, with snow and rain in the Northeast and rain in other areas outside the Midwest snow belt.

Arctic air from Canada spread into Montana, Wyoming and North Dakota. In Montana, temperatures fell to 26 below zero in Butte, -20 in Drummond, -19 in Lewistown and -17 in Cut Bank.

The snow belt extended from Lake Michigan and Lake Superior into Kansas, Nebraska and southern South Dakota. Heavy snow fell in Iowa, with six inches reported in a six-hour period in Des Moines, making a total of 15

Glenn Moves in Select Company

WASHINGTON (AP)—For a man who doesn't wear a general's star on his shoulder, Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. will be moving in select military company when he is greeted today at a joint meeting of Congress.

Except for the President and visiting heads of state, joint gatherings of the House and Senate usually are reserved for generals, although an Army technical sergeant made the elite group in 1945.

Sgt. Jake W. Lindsay of Luce, Mass., led a parade of military brass into the House chamber for a joint session on May 21, 1945. Lindsay was a hero of the invasion of Germany and was personally given the Medal of Honor in the well of the House by President Harry S. Truman.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower addressed a joint meeting less than a month later, on June 18, after his triumphant return from Europe.

On September 10, 1945, Gen. Jonathan Wainwright, the hero of Bataan, was received at separate Senate and House sessions.

Gen. Lucius Clay reported on the Berlin crisis at separate sessions on May 17, 1949. The Senate and the House met jointly on April 19, 1951, to hear Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who had just been recalled from Japan, and again on May 22, 1952, to hear Gen. Matthew Ridgway, who had replaced MacArthur as commander in the Far East.

Meeting on Potatoes Set March 2

If you are interested in growing sweet potatoes let us know by Friday, March 2, said county agent Calvin Caldwell. The Allen Canning Co. of Siloam Springs, said they would contract sweet potatoes in this county if enough growers to grow 50 acres would agree to their contract.

The average price per hundred pounds of potatoes is $2.00. The price of potatoes will vary according to the time at which they are harvested. The minimum is $2.30 per hundred pounds for potatoes dug before August 10 and decrease as the harvest season progresses.

The county agent said we must have this information by the end of the week so that company representatives may be notified.

He Got His Degree the Hard Way

BALDWIN, N. Y. (AP)—Nassau County patrolman Walter R. Henesy is a devoted father to a family that soon will number a dozen children. But he hasn't had much time to enjoy the role.

For the past six years, he has been grinding away at his studies—going to bed late, arising early for his regular job and doing odd jobs on the weekend to pay for his education.

Now that's all in the past. He recently passed his bar examination and expects to be admitted to the bar in June.

The Brooklyn-born patrolman, now 42, grew up in Oceanside, N. Y. He had to leave high school to take a job to help support his family, which had 10 children.

After Army service in the China-Burma-India theater, he married his childhood sweetheart, Helen Maloney, and set about having the large family.

His bid to realize the dream of an education came after he joined the police force in 1949. First, he got his high school equivalency diploma, then attended Hofstra College by meshing it into his work schedule. Next he attended St. John's University Law School in New York City, again on a staggered schedule.

"It meant going into a room with the books and shutting yourself off from the world," said Henesy, who earns $7,400-a-year as a patrolman. He has no immediate plans for leaving the police force.

Local Group to FFA Contest

Going to Prestock (Monday) to participate in a leadership contest in the Future Farmers of America were Charles Dudley, Nicky Marlar, J. C. May, James Powell, Leon Prince, Reggie Turner and Johnny Wilson.

They presented a mock FFA meeting in which their abilities in parliamentary procedure were judged. Jimmy Carver attended and gave a speech "Help for the Farmer." Laura Adams, local FFA Sweetheart, represented Hope in the district FFA Sweetheart contest.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress plans to take it fairly easy this week, after last week's shakedown of President Kennedy's plan to establish a department of urban affairs and housing.

U. S. Court Ruling Favors the 'Riders'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court ruled unanimously today that no state may require racial segregation of transportation facilities.

Its ruling applies both to intrastate facilities, that is wholly within the state, as well as interstate, or travel across state lines. The court said the question had been settled by its previous decisions and is no longer open to litigation.

It directed the U.S. District Court in Mississippi to rule on protests by Freedom Riders who were arrested in Jackson, Miss. The Supreme Court told the District Court to dispose of the case expeditiously, "in the light of this (today's) opinion."

Chief Justice Earl Warren read the court's unsigned opinion which said:

"We have settled beyond question that no state may require racial segregation of interstate or intrastate transportation facilities. The question is no longer open; it is foreclosed as a litigable issue."

Haywood Infant Dies on Sunday

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Haywood of Fulton died Sunday in a local hospital. Survivors include two brothers and six sisters. Graveside services will be held at 2:30 Monday at Fulton with Herndon-Cornelius in charge.

Teacher Improvement

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A council for economic education will be organized here Tuesday to develop plans for improving teachers in the fields of economic and business education and social studies. Dr. George Farish, associate director of the Joint Council of Economic Education of New York, will act as consultant.

Calls on Dutch and Indonesia to Revive Talk

By HENDRICK KERSTING

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP)—Robert F. Kennedy called today for both Indonesia and the Netherlands to take a "factual and rational" approach to the explosive issue of West New Guinea.

The U.S. attorney general, nearing the end of a world tour during which he has visited both the countries contending for the Southeast Asia island territory, clearly implied he found both the Dutch and Indonesians approached the issue emotionally rather than factually.

"If a factual approach could be made and a genuine effort made by rational people" from both sides, he said, it might be possible to get both governments together at the conference table to work out a peaceful solution.

Kennedy refused to say whether he had made any suggestions to Foreign Minister Joseph M. A. H. Luns during a 70-minute conference they held today. Luns said they had a "good and friendly exchange" but that it was not conclusive since Kennedy is only on a fact-finding tour.

Aides to Kennedy said he brought no message from the Indonesian government to the Dutch.

Kennedy said his mission in both the Netherlands and Indonesia had been to hear the peoples' views and their suggestions for a peaceful solution. Asked whether he had made any suggestion to Indonesian President Sukarno, he replied that the United States is a friend of both Indonesia and the Netherlands.

"We, along with many other countries, are making efforts for a peaceful solution and to get the two parties sitting down to come to a settlement," he said.

Kennedy arrived Sunday from Bonn for a busy round of calls before flying this afternoon to Paris, his last stop before flying home.

Soon after his arrival he and his wife had tea with Queen Juliana at IJluis Ten Bosch, her palace on the outskirts of The Hague, Sunday night. The attorney general dined with top government officials and West New Guinea was the chief topic of after dinner discussion.

Mrs. Kennedy made a sightseeing tour of The Hague, Delft and Amsterdam.

Before leaving West Germany, the Kennedys drove the 15 miles from Bonn to Cologne to attend Mass at the famous Cologne Cathedral.

Plenty of Old Voters in State

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Nineteen per cent of Arkansas' political voters are over 55 years of age, a Census Bureau report shows. Eleven per cent of the state's population is in that age group, and between 1950 and 1960, Arkansas' median age increased from 26.9 to 29 years.

Arkansas is one of five states that have the largest proportions of elderly persons in the voting-age group. The other states are Vermont, Missouri, Iowa and Nebraska.

In Arkansas, the report showed, there are 194,372 persons 65 or older and 194,443 under the age of five.

There are 188,113 in the 5-to-9 bracket and 187,103 between 10 and 14.

In urban areas, the median age is 29.8 years, and in rural areas it is 28.2 years. Towns whose population is between 1,000 and 2,500 have a median age of 33.2 years.

The report was based on the 1960 census.

State Death Toll Is 15 by Violence

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A car and a truck crashed head-on on U.S. Highway 71 south of Fayetteville Sunday, killing three persons and bringing Arkansas' violent death toll for the week to 15.

William E. Alburg, 65, and his wife, Ella, 62, of Fayetteville, died when their car hit the truck. Garvin Clifton, 37, of West Fork, the truck driver, died several hours later in a Fayetteville hospital.

Miller County authorities are investigating the death of a man, tentatively identified as Clyde Coffee, 45, whose body was found on U.S. Highway 71 south of Texarkana Saturday. Coroner Richard Britcher said he apparently was a transient. A bread truck hit the body, but the driver, Keith Griffith 21, of Texarkana said he did not know if his truck was the first to hit the man.

Nellie Campbell, 65, Negro, was killed when struck by a Missouri Pacific passenger train at a crossing near her home north of North Little Rock Saturday.

She was one of two pedestrians killed by trains last week. Eight persons died in traffic accidents, two drowned, and one each died in a car-train wreck, a fire and a fall.

Alvin H. Slaughter, 63, of El Dorado, drowned Saturday when his hand became impaled on a trolley hook which pulled him into a pond near El Dorado. His body was recovered from eight feet of water.

Macmillan Ready for a Summit

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan told Soviet Premier Khrushchev today he is "very ready" to join a summit parley on disarmament if negotiations make progress or run into deadlock.

In a mildly worded note, Macmillan expressed the view that "either of these situations may arise fairly soon."

The prime minister lined up with President Kennedy in rejecting Khrushchev's proposal that heads of government personally should give a flying start to the 16-power conference opening March 14 in Geneva under United Nations sponsorship.

The British leader said he still felt, however, that the Geneva negotiations should begin at foreign ministers level as he and Kennedy have suggested.

Macmillan's letter was delivered in Moscow today. Seen together with Kennedy's reply, it emphasized that British-American differences with Khrushchev on summitry hold down to the question of timing.

The prime minister's message, courteously worded, read like an appeal to the Soviet premier's logic.

Weather Fails to Keep Large Crowd Away

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. flew to Washington in a heavy rain today to receive new honors in this proud capital for being the first American to orbit the earth.

The big silver and orange presidential jet plane—President Kennedy was host on the flight—touched down at Andrews Air Force Base at 11:16 a.m. after a flight from West Palm Beach, Fla.

The rain was so heavy it "scrubbed" — to use an astronaut's term — plans for Glenn and the President to fly to the White House in a helicopter. Instead, they turned to a motorcade.

Thus, once again, weather threw a kink into the planning that has surrounded almost every step of Glenn's career as an astronaut.

Repeatedly, before his triumph of last Tuesday, Glenn's attempt to circle the earth in a space vehicle had been upset by bad weather.

Strains of "Hail to the Chief" and "The Star Spangled Banner" greeted Glenn and the President as they left the plane and headed into a day of festive praise that not even the dreary weather could spoil.

In order, the schedule was: A White House ceremony, a triumphant parade along Pennsylvania Avenue and an appearance before Congress.

It was the U.S. Army band that met the party. But it was the U.S. Marine band—Glenn is a lieutenant colonel in the Marines—that had the sole musical role in the parade from the White House to the capitol.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. flew into Washington today, escorted by President Kennedy, for a day of high honors in the nation's capital.

The President's big jet plane, flying from West Palm Beach, Fla., with Glenn and his whole family aboard, landed at Andrews Air Force Base in nearby Maryland at 11:16 a.m. QIF

The landing was made under low ceiling short visibility conditions in a pouring rain.

The weather drove the opening ceremonies, planned for outdoors into the shelter of a big hangar.

As the rain kept pouring down, plans for a helicopter flight to carry the astronaut from the air base were canceled and a motorcade was arranged.

The presidential limousine and a fleet of other cars wheeled into the hangar 15 minutes before the expected touchdown of the President's jet.

Already on hand were Mr. and Mrs. H.W. Castor, Mrs. Glenn's parents, and her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. James Hossy of Pittsburgh.

They were flown from Florida, where they had spent the week-end with the Glens, on an Air Force jet identical to the President's.

They took their place in the area of the hangar floor reserved for "distinguished guests."

It was just as wet downtown but the harder ones gathered early along the route of the parade from the White House to the Capitol. A few dozen were on hand behind the ropes at the Capital Plaza two hours before Glenn was due there to appear at a joint meeting of Congress.

A cab driver on Connecticut Avenue told a reporter on route to the White House:

"It seems like weather plays an important part in that feller (Glenn) doesn't it?"

"I have seen a lot of women with children around the parade route so far. I wouldn't bring my kids down on a day like this."

Weather had been the cause of some of the several postponements of the first U.S. manned orbital flight which Glenn finally carried out last Tuesday.

A big jet taxied slowly across the field to the hangar where a red carpet had been unrolled.

When the plane stopped, the ramp was rolled up and the President stepped out, followed closely by Glenn. A band struck up "Ruffles and Flourishes" and "Hail to the Chief." The President and Glenn both stood at attention at the foot of the ramp while the band played the national anthem.

The President and the astronaut stepped out in the rain shoulder to shoulder to march through an honor guard of Marines up to a small reviewing stand facing detachments from each of the armed services.

Glenn's alternates in the space venture also had been flown here from Florida.

Glenn walked out alone to shake hands with the commander of the Marine color guard, then returned to the President and his family.

They quickly climbed into the presidential bubble top limousine and drove away without further ceremonies. The automobile had the bubble up to shield against the rain.

German Communist regime, he said in a speech taped for broadcast to East Germany that on his world tour he had gained the impression that East German party chief Walter Ulbricht has "no prestige and no position in any place in the world in which I have been."

Complete recollection returned to Marie. The scene in Race's room, and Miss Jenny walking out on Race, and Marie following her and being really shocked when she saw where Miss was headed. Not even on the "Ladies" side, either, but right in the main saloon where a girl was supposed to have an escort. Marie had gone in the Ladies' Parlor, herself, and had a bottle of wine while she watched Miss Jenny's proceedings over the dividing door.

"Are you going to tell me what happened this afternoon or do I have to choke it out of you?" Race asked.

Marie widened her eyes to give them a truthful look. "Nothing happened. Miss Jenny sat there, the way you told her then you came back and took her down to the parlor."

He sat on the bed and gently tugged her hair. "Now, listen. I may not be very popular around here for a while, and I want you to do something."

"What?" she was cautious.

Race rubbed her hand, absently. "The night Fenton was set on and killed, before he died, the police said, he talked about a book, and mentioned Midgely's name."

"Fenton? Why, he's been dead for weeks! And what's he got to do with anything, anyways?"

"I never trusted him," Race spoke slowly, as though he wasn't sure of what he was saying. "I don't know what he was up to, or whether Midgely was in on it, but now's the time when I've got to find out. And that's where you come in, Petite."

"Me? How?"

"I want you to turn your charms on Midgely. See if he knows anything about that book."

"That wormy-looking thing?"

"That's just why it ought to be easy. I don't think he's married, and he'd probably melt like butter if a girl like you so much as looked at him." He gave her his crooked smile.

Marie tried to hold onto her objections. "But I wouldn't know where to begin."

"Petite, the sooner you get close to Midgely and find out what he knows, the better ... for both of us."

Chapter 19

There were two men with Jenny. Two incredibly flashy-looking creatures, with hideous curly-brimmed bowlers. They, too, were flushed, laughing and nudging each other with their elbows. In a word, they were drunk.

Hilda didn't know how she came to take it in so quickly, but, hearing the others come to life behind her, she whipped around and made a fiercely warning face. Then she turned back to the trio on the doorstep.

"Jenny! What are you doing at the front door?" she said rapidly, in a scolding tone. "And in this condition, too. I'm ashamed of you. No more days off for you for a month! As for you — gentlemen," she looked them up and down, "the sooner you take yourselves off, the better. You should know better than to let a poor working girl get in this disgusting condition. Mr. Nash ... Saunders, see these gentlemen down the steps!"

Race and Saunders moved purposefully toward the two men, who began to back hastily down the long flight of steps. Hilda reached for Jenny's hand, pulled her into the house and slammed the door.

She got Jenny into the drawing room against the running objections of Aunt Judith, Uncle George and Miss Maggie, all of whom anxiously, "Jenny, are you all right, and must be gotten to bed immediately."

Aunt Judith leaned over Jenny anxiously. "Jenny, are you all right? Oh, Jenny, where have you been?"

"Lovely stars, b-beautiful garters, happy, f-funny place," Jenny hiccupped and put a polite finger to her mouth.

"Scuse me," she murmured.

George Russell said blankly: "She's drunk!"

"As an owl," Cousin Matthew agreed, and chuckled.

Aunt Judith rounded on him. "Well, you may think it's funny! But I fail to see it. If this were to be known ...!"

"Well, thanks to Hilda's quick thinking, that's not likely," Cousin Matthew observed. He eyed Jenny critically. "Probably won't be very chipper in the morning, but, otherwise, she seems to have taken no harm."

"You're drunk, too!" Race's voice was low but furious.

Marie blinked up into the glare of the gaslight. It took a moment to realize she was in her own bed at Russell House, which made it the more astonishing to see the angry face bent over her.

"Me-drunk? Never! A little wine, that is all." Without thinking, she used her accent, and though she was confused, she felt sure was justified in sounding indignant. "What're you doing here? We'll get in trouble."

"Nobody knows I'm here. They think I've left. And I have to know what happened when I left Miss Jenny in the room with you."

Steel Talks Haven't Progressed

BAL HARBOUR, Fla. (AP)—Labor union sources reported today that steel negotiations in Pittsburgh have not progressed nearly so well as it is generally believed.

The basic terms for a new labor contract simply have not yet been determined, according to informed reports circulated here at the winter meeting of the AFL-CIO Executive Council. The reports suggest that the friendly atmosphere of the talks has been no more than just that.

Both sides have been aiming informally at a March 1 settlement in response to President Kennedy's repeated urging for an early agreement to replace contracts expiring June 30. It is not now expected the March 1 target will be realized.

Over the weekend, the AFL-CIO council expressed alarm at the continuing high rate of unemployment and called for a combined drive for higher wages, a federal income tax cut and increased public works spending to expand purchasing power and create more jobs.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, said in a locally televised interview that organized labor wanted to see the administration avoid "the coming Kennedy recession in the next six months or so."

The AFL-CIO leader said economic recovery has struck a snag and that interest rates again have started climbing. He advocated a flexible work week system that would reduce normal work hours below 40 a week in times of heavy unemployment but return them to the 40-hour level during full employment periods.

inches on the ground. In Waterloo, Iowa, the seven-inch fall increased the total on the ground to 17 inches.

Four to eight inches of snow was indicated in northwest Wisconsin and two to four inches in the northern half of Illinois.

Snow also spread across areas in the central Rockies, Utah, Nevada and northern Arizona.

Showers and thundershowers broke out southeast of the Midwest snow line, extending across the lower Ohio Valley into the Carolinas and Georgia. Heavy rain pelted most of western Kentucky.

Freezing rain and sleet slicked highways in northwest and extreme northern Illinois and the narrow icy belt stretched from the Oklahoma Panhandle to lower Michigan. Heavy snow or glaze warnings were posted for much of Kansas, Nebraska, northwest Missouri, Iowa and sections of Illinois and Wisconsin.

In the Far West, showers dampened scattered sections of California. Two inches of snow fell in the Mount Hamilton area south-east of San Francisco.

Algeria Rebel Officials Set to Accept

By ANDREW BOROWIEC

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — Armed cars and riot troops swarmed into the heart of Algiers today but European terrorists killed 10 more Moslems, virtually under the eyes of police.

The Algerian nationalist rebels' parliament was meeting in Tripoli and was expected to approve a cease-fire with the French before the day is over.

This was expected to touch off another eruption of violence by the secret army, enemy of both the rebels and the French government.

In its campaign to block Algerian independence and keep the territory French, the secret army Sunday staged one of its most daring attacks to date—a bazooka raid on a French military police barracks in the outskirts. At least 10 persons were reported slain and gasoline storage tanks were set afire.

French authorities retaliated by moving armed forces into Algiers from outlying bases, but still the killings went on in the crowded street of Algiers.

Six Moslems were slain on the Rue Mitchell. Police arrested a European and said he admitted one of the attacks.

Four Moslem dead and one wounded were sprawled over a 100-yard stretch of sidewalk opposite the University of Algiers.

An aged Moslem with a pointed white beard and dressed in a flowing robe lay dead across the street from the U.S. Information Service library. A Moslem youth, badly wounded, huddled by his side. A young man who had passed just before the attack said they had been sitting on the sidewalk watching passersby when they were shot.

Over the weekend at least 50 persons were killed in what seemed to be indiscriminate attacks by European and Moslem terrorists. The Saturday toll was 30, and 28 were reported killed Sunday.

Some 800 Moslem students at the University of Algiers went on strike, protesting that police protection against the secret army terrorists was not adequate. Mail delivery men also continued a strike for more protection which they demanded after seven postmen on their rounds were shot last week.

Informed sources said Algerian leaders attending the secret conference of the National Council in Tripoli probably would hold an announcement of their acceptance of peace terms until rebel Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda returns to Tunis, permanent headquarters of his National Liberation Front—FLN.

The French Cabinet already has approved the agreement to end the 7½-year war.

The 54 members of the rebel parliament have been holding secret day and night sessions since their arrival in Tripoli last Thursday. As Sunday night's session ended, Ferhat Abbas, former rebel premier and a leader of the FLN, hinted agreement was near.

In one of their heaviest attacks so far, commandos of the Secret Army Organization fired bazooka rockets into a French military police barracks Sunday night at Maison Carree, a suburb of Algiers, setting gasoline storage tanks ablaze.

Early reports said at least 10 persons were killed or wounded in the attack.

Fire engines summoned to fight the raging fires were blocked by machine gun fire for nearly an hour. The French army rushed six heavy tanks and a score of other armored vehicles into the area.

Firemen finally quelled the blaze which had spread to an ammunition dump, touching off many cartridges. The glow of the fire was visible in Algiers. The exploding bullets could be heard in the city.

Official sources counted 26 persons killed and 51 wounded in 48 scattered weekend terrorist attacks up to midnight Sunday.

"LOSS OF INNOCENCE"

Don't Remove Growth Killed by Freeze

In all probability you have some ornamental plants in your yard that were damaged by the recent hard freezes. Calvin J. Caldwell, county agent, advises not to remove the damaged growth since most horticulturists are in agreement that this dead tissue should not be removed at this time.

If there is any doubt that twigs and branches have been killed, it is best to wait until growth starts in the early spring when such damage can be easily detected. At that time, prune the plant back to live tissue and remove one or two inches of live wood.

To determine how much of a shrub has been killed, use a knife or the thumb nail to scratch into the cambium layer, a thin layer of tissue one cell in thickness and located between the bark and wood. If this cambium tissue is brown or black in color, it is safe to say that the tissue has been killed down to that point. If the bark has been split or cracked, this area should also be cut out. Often the damage is to the outside twigs and branches of the plant and the plant will need only slight pruning.

The pruning shears should be dipped between cuts in a disinfectant such as 70% denatured alcohol. This will prevent the spread of diseases should they be present in the plant tissue.

One way to lessen damage to broadleaf evergreens in case of another freeze is to water the plant thoroughly as soon as the soil has thawed. This prevents drying which causes more damage than the cold.

Woman's Lot in TV Has Been Dreary

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Woman's lot in television this past season has been such a dreary one that actress Inger Stevens is excited about a chance to play a nice American girl in a comedy.

It is well-known that most pretty, blonde actresses yearn for chances to play disreputable harlots and mad women the way comedians dream about "Hamlet."

But after a most active season during which Miss Stevens has appeared in just about all of the popular filmed television series, she grabbed an opportunity to co-star in Sunday night's CBS special, an adaptation of Maxwell Anderson's good tempered comedy about a nice young couple, "Saturday's Children."

"This season I've played nothing but accents," said Miss Stevens sadly. "I've played Germans, Swedes, Romanians and Mexicans. I think it's nice to play an American girl. I've played spies, fallen women, sick woman and murderers. I think it will be wonderful to play a good girl in a comedy."

NBC will now have its moments with the nation's First Lady. On March 25, the network will present "The World of Jacqueline Kennedy," and even now a camera crew under the direction of producer Eugene Jones is working in the White House.

The hour-long program, fifth in a series, will use still photographs, film clips and interviews with friends as well as film made in the White House to tell the story of the President's wife.

After CBS made its recently aired "Tour of the White House," the program was shared, at White House request, with the other two networks. With Mrs. Kennedy such a personal hit in that show, one wonders if NBC church in the history of Christendom.

"We are not a wealthy congregation," said Dean Willis, business administrator. "About half of our members give between $50 and $300 per year. A fourth give less than $50 and a fourth more than $300. Forty-five per cent of those who made pledges said they tithe."

Although First Baptist has 12,000 members, it counts only 7,500 persons as active in its giving program. Of these 6,500 are enrolled in Sunday School.

The church places great emphasis on its Sunday School. A paid, full-time staff member supervises each age division from nursery to adult. With a few exceptions classes have 8 to 30 members.

The $1,218,000 budget provides $502,045 for denominational, benevolent and missionary programs; $501,855 for local church programs and $214,700 for building indebtedness and capital outlays.

The largest item in the local church budget is $237,505 for salaries of the ministers, staff, office and maintenance personnel, workers in the nursery for children of mothers attending services and weekday programs and a supervisor for the recreational program.

Home Town Now Ghost Camp; Should Couple Go or Stay?

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Vo. Agri. Blevins

Dear Helen: We live in a mining town where the boom has come and gone. Twenty years of our married life have gone into beautifying our home and we love it. However, like Thomas Moore in his "Light of Other Days," all but we have fled to the next town, including our pastor, doctor and friends. With the closing of the mines, also went the churches, schools, hospital, hotels, boarding houses, moving picture theaters and shops.

The lone store left has such a tiny stock. The owner sends what he pleases, never what I order. Our doctor lives 20 miles away. Since we have sold our car (no longer being physically able to drive one), we taxi to his office. If we were in the other town, I could walk there or to our church and visit friends.

Nobody ever visits us here. My husband will leave if I insist, but his roots are here. Our only son grew up here. He died three years ago and lies buried in the old graveyard, on the hill. Morning, noon and night my husband and I debate whether to sell and buy a small house in another town. Since we cannot come to a decision my husband suggests I ask your advice. —H.

Dear H.: Is there any chance of the old camp staging a comeback? If so, hang on. If not, you and your husband should move to another town, even though it be hard for him. I, too, always want things to remain as they were but this, I've learned from experience, never works, for life is growth and if we resist it, we shall surely wither on the vine. Once your husband grasps this, he will go with you but the choice should be his.

Since neither of you are young, living in a warmer climate might be the answer. Write to Chambers of Commerce in Florida, Arizona and California. Make moving a lark instead of a chore.

Dear Helen: You published a letter recently from a couple who will be able to hold onto its exclusive.

longed to return to their home in Southern Illinois but their children didn't approve. I think those children very selfish. After all, their father and mother grew up on that farm and if they want to go back, they should.

My mother died when I was small and I went to live on a farm in Ohio. Although I now make my home in Connecticut and have a family of my own, I still dream of those happy years on that Ohio farm when I could stroll through the green fields of a spring morning; walk in the snow, braced against a winter storm, or look up at the blue heavens of a June day and thank God I was alive. My only regret is that my children will have no such memories. —Mrs. R. S. Reagan, East Lyme, Conn.

Dear Mrs. Reagan: Your children are probably already storing up local memories. New England's white church steeples, curli American houses, red barns and village greens have their appeal too. To further increase the youngsters' awareness of this particular world, encourage them to study New England novelists and poets such as Hawthorne, Emerson, Margaret Fuller, Emily Dickinson and Whittier.

Dear Helen: The boy next door is Spanish. My parents consented to me going with him as long as we didn't get serious. After the third date he declared his love. I'm too young to know what love really is but — I like him a lot. How can I convince my father and mother that he is different from his family: hard-working, ambitious and neat? He's 19, I'm in third year high. —Girl Next Door

Fertilization Results in Good Pasture

By WILLIAM C. LOE

Vo. Agri. Blevins

One day last spring I drove by a pasture on the Freda's Angus Farm near Blevins and thought this pasture to be one of the better pastures of our community.

Later I checked with Lavelle Bond, and he told me some interesting things about the pasture land. The condition of the soil before fertilization was poor. "In fact," Mr. Bonds said, "it was so poor it wouldn't sprout peas."

The soil was tested and limed to specification and seeded to crimson clover and oats in the fall of 1960. This was drilled into the Bermuda sod. At planting time 200 pounds of 10-10-10 was applied and then in the spring of 1961 the pasture was top dressed with 100 pounds of ammonia nitrate. Chicken liter was applied liberally to this pasture land in the fall and winter of 1960.

This 60 acre pasture furnishes plenty of grass for 30 cows and calves grazing continuously from March 1 to June 1. In fact these cows did not keep up with the grazing available.

The clover and oats were bush-hogged off the pasture the last of May, in order to let the Bermuda come through. The cows were allowed to remain on the pasture. Mr. Bonds said, that after fertilization and with chicken litter the Bermuda hay was tested for protein and it tested unusually.

America Has Young Skater Coming On

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP)—"The United States never has had a figure skater so good at such an early age."

"Pound for pound, the toughest competitor who ever stepped on the ice."

"A sure bet for the Olympic crown in 1964."

These are the lofty estimates heaped on 12-year-old Scott Allen of Smoke Rise, N. J., by his coach, Fritz Dietl, as the two make preparations for the world figure skating championships at Prague, Czechoslovakia, March 14-17.

"The only thing wrong with Scotty is his age," Dietl, an Austrian who once skated with the great Sonja Henie, added today. "Judges just can't believe a kid so young can be so good, so they downgrade him."

Allen, runnerup to Monty Hoyt, 17, of Denver in the recent U.S. championships at Boston, is the youngest skater, boy or girl, ever to carry this country's colors in the world tournament. Carol Heiss was 14 when she made her first world title bid.

Scott is a good-looking, curly-haired youngster who stands only five feet and weighs a bare 97 pounds. His father, Frank Allen, is a wealthy industrialist, descendant of Elhan Allen. His mother, the former Sonja Fuhrman, was twice figure skating queen of Sweden.

"I skate because I like it—no one is twisting my arm," he added. "My ambition is to win the Olympics in 1964."

light. This hay contained approximately 8% protein. Bermuda hay from unfertilized pasture may test as low as 3% protein.

These facts were given to me by Mr. Bonds and I think they are impressive because they show what can be done with proper fertilization and with chicken litter on almost any pasture in Hempstead County.

PARENT PSYCHOLOGY

by Janet Henry

Many's the time we have ranted and raved Over the way that our offspring behaved; Bikes in the driveway and clothes on the floor, Battling and tattling and close-the-front-door, Then, when we found ourselves frantic and hoarse, We hit upon a remarkable course; For every recognized family crime Dock the allowance, a dime at a time. Go ahead, kids; be our guests; misbehave; We keep on counting the money we save!

Colavito spoke with Tigers. firm, shot a four-under-par on Sunday for a 281 total to win the $30,000 Greater New Orleans Open by two strokes.

He fashioned his 68 with a 33-35 and withstood pressure from pudgy Bob Rosburg, the onetime PGA lister from Portland, Ore., who finished second with a 69 and 283 total.

Doug Sanders, the 29-year-old short-swinging pro who won here last year, finished third with a 285. Sanders, a Cedarhurst, Ga., native who plays out of Ojai, Calif., carded a 71 for the final round.

The easy-going Winger has had near-misses since he won the Kansas City Open in 1956, with a tendency to run into a bad round frequently.

His $4,300 paycheck for first place in the New Orleans tourney was nearly double the $2,317.50 he won in nine PGA tourneys last year.

It boosted his earnings this year to $6,638.33 and put him in 11th place on the PGA's official money list. He played in four of the seven earlier events this year and plans to leave the tour after this week's $20,000 Baton Rouge Open which starts Thursday.

Gentile Picks Up Where He Left Off

By MIKE RATHET Associated Press Sports Writer

Busiest man around baseball's spring camps during the early stages when rigid muscles refuse to respond is the trainer—and Baltimore's medical cure-all today went after slugging Oriole first baseman Jim Gentile with everything in his arsenal.

Gentile, who provided the power for the Orioles last season as he hit .302, rapped 46 homers and drove in 141 runs, reported early at his own request and began spraying well-hit drives all over the field.

When Gentile assessed his efforts over the weekend, he found he had badly bruised a batch of baseballs—and hadn't neglected himself. Trainer Billy Weidner declared Gentile a member of the club's linament brigade with a jammed right thumb, infected ingrown toenail and three open blisters on each hand.

Elsewhere, it was a similar story. In the most serious accidents, outfielder Ken Hunt of the Los Angeles Angels was struck on the left elbow by a pitch from Johnny James and rookie hurler Roy Hoyer of the Washington Senators twisted his knee and will be forced to miss several workouts.

Bruised pride also was a problem over the weekend as the Detroit Tigers slugging outfielder, Rocky Colavito, joined home run king Roger Maris of the New York Yankees as the top names among American League players dissatisfied with their contract offers.

Colavito spoke with Tigers' firm, shot a four-under-par on Sunday for a 281 total to win the $30,000 Greater New Orleans Open by two strokes.

He fashioned his 68 with a 33-35 and withstood pressure from pudgy Bob Rosburg, the onetime PGA lister from Portland, Ore., who finished second with a 69 and 283 total.

Doug Sanders, the 29-year-old short-swinging pro who won here last year, finished third with a 285. Sanders, a Cedarhurst, Ga., native who plays out of Ojai, Calif., carded a 71 for the final round.

Cincinnati Is History Repeating

By JIM HACKLEMAN Associated Press Sports Writer

One year ago Bradley Went up against the St. Louis Billikens needing a victory to tie Cincinnati for the Missouri Valley basketball title and force a playoff for the conference's berth in the NCAA tournament.

St. Louis upset the Braves, putting Cincinnati in the NCAA. The Bearcats went all the way to the national championship.

History is repeating itself. Cincinnati wrapped up at least a share of its fifth successive Missouri Valley title Saturday night by ripping Wichita 84-63 and finishing with a 10-2 conference record. Bradley can catch the Bearcats if it wins its final game—at St. Louis this Saturday.

If that happens, the two nationally ranked rivals will have their playoff on a neutral floor, with the NCAA spot as the prize. The Missouri Valley has been only one of many tangled races among the 16 conferences which will send teams to the NCAA classic, which opens March 12 with first-round competition.

Ohio State's powerful Buckeyes, driving toward their third straight Big Ten crown, swamped Illinois Saturday for a perfect 21-0 record. Wisconsin maintained its mathematical chance for the title—the surprise of the basketball year if the Badgers should pull it off—by trimming Northwestern 65-64. Tonight, Ohio State is at Iowa and the Badgers are at home to Minnesota. On Saturday they'll meet head-on at Wisconsin.

Yale has the big edge in the Ivy League, two games up on Penn and Cornell with all three winding up the season with two games this weekend—including Penn at Cornell Friday. UCLA has a three-game edge on Southern California and Stanford in the Big Five, with three games left for the three contenders. Pepperdine is the frontrunner in the West Coast Athletic Conference and has a good chance at taking it all Saturday night against second-place St. Mary's.

Utah, on NCAA probation and ineligible for postseason play, kept in front in the Skyline by outscoring Brigham Young 106-101 Saturday night as Billy McGill went on a 60-point spree. Utah State and Colorado State University, the two contenders for the NCAA berth, also won and stayed deadlocked for second behind the Utes. Utah could knock CSU out of the running when they tangle at Salt Lake City Thursday night.

Now for the battles—Colorado and Kansas State are producing the fireworks in the Big Eight, with the Buffaloes 10-0 and the Wildcats 9-1 and a showdown at K-State Saturday. Each has two games afterwards.

Kentucky (10-1) at Auburn (10-2) tonight should be the key in the Southeastern, even though they are running 2-3 behind defending conference champion Mississippi State (11-1). Mississippi State has announced it would not be interested in an NCAA bid because of the state's custom against racially integrated athletics.

The Southwest Conference, as usual, is a scramble with Texas Tech and Southern Methodist tied at the top (9-3) and Texas A&M at 8-4. The Aggies are at Tech Tuesday night while SMU plays last-place Baylor, and they'll each have one game later.

Lafayette is ahead in the Middle Atlantic at 9-1 with Temple and St. Joseph's (Pa.) its chief rivals at 7-1. Since Lafayette plays 12 league games to nine for the other two clubs, a playoff looms as a good possibility. Massachusetts tops the Yankee standings at 7-2 and finishes at home against New Hampshire Saturday, while Rhode Island is 6-2 with games against Maine Thursday and Connecticut Saturday.

The two remaining NCAA assignments will go the winners of the annual Atlantic Coast and

Venezuela Plane Crash Kills 22

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—A Venezuelan airliner smashed into a mountain Sunday, killing the 22 persons aboard. All reportedly were Venezuelans.

The twin-engine turboprop plane of Avenida Airlines was coming in for a landing through clouds on the resort island of Margarita, off Venezuela's east coast. It burst into flames after it crashed.

The plane carried 19 passengers and a crew of three. It ran into bad weather after taking off from Carupano, in eastern Venezuela.

Judy Garland Is Tops at Singing

By CYNTHIA LOWRY AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Television is full of pretty girls with nice voices and special ways with a song. But none can compare with Judy Garland. A tiny figure against a dramatic, stark background, she sang for most of an hour Sunday night, and it was a special sort of communication between an audience and a great performer.

It wasn't the songs—they were mostly old, popular numbers like "I Can't Give You Anything But Love," "Just in Time" and, perhaps her best number, "The Man That Got Away." Miss Garland invested them with excitement and emotion.

Actually, it was not the greatest television show of the year. Too much of the time Miss Garland was performing against dark backgrounds, and there were attention-diverting tricks of the camera. The inclusion of Frank Sinatra and Dean Martin, neither in particularly good voice nor well rehearsed, added little. They seemed much more interested in insulting each other and being cute than in backing up the star.

The adaptation of an early Maxwell Anderson play, "Saturday's Children," did not come off particularly well in its CBS hour Sunday night.

The story, penned over 30 years ago, showed its age despite efforts to bring it up to date. Inger Stevens and Cliff Robertson worked hard—too hard—as the newly married couple having their trials and tribulations. Ralph Bellamy played the girl's philosophical father, specializing in little lectures on patience and forbearance.

The rather long hour seemed to consist mostly of door-slaming, furniture-throwing, quarrels and tears, but not much comedy or even much reason for the fights.

The greatest concentration of plot in all of the weekend's dramatic offerings was concentrated in the NBC Opera Company production of "The Love of Three Kings" Sunday afternoon.

The colorcast was beautiful, the voices and music fine. Because it was in English, it was, unfortunately, possible to follow the plot—faithless wife, jealous husband, a strangling and a double poisoning. As a matter of fact, the only principal singer on his feet at the end of the program was the blind old father. The story line would keep a soap opera going for five years.

Skindivers Die, Trapped in Quarry

KINGSTON, N.Y. (AP)—Three skindivers died Sunday when a mud slide trapped them 130 feet under water in an abandoned stone quarry and their air supplies ran out.

A fourth diver, who made a daring attempt to rescue them, was reported in fair condition at a hospital today, suffering from shock. He knew his own breathing apparatus was defective when he made the rescue attempt.

Those asphyxiated were: Jack Lepinski, 27, of Wakefield, Mich., a U.S. Air Force man who had been attending courses at an International Business Machines Corp. plant here; David Lasher, 32, and William Mills Sr., 45, both of this city on the Hudson River.

Under treatment at Benedictine Hospital is Gerry Klemm, 27, of Kingston, who attempted the rescue.

Eight members of the Ulster County Skindivers Club went to the quarry, a favorite spot for skindivers because the water—200 feet deep at spots—doesn't freeze in the winter.

Lepinski, Lasher, Mills and Klemm entered a narrow tunnel and made their way to the dark quarry shaft 150 feet inside a hill. Klemm's oxygen regulator did not operate properly, and he remained at the top to hold ropes.

Southern Conference tourneys, set for this Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Wake Forest, Duke and North Carolina State are regarded as the top numbers in the ACC playoffs, and perennial champion West Virginia is favored in the Southern tourney.

Cats Close Out Season With a Victory

By VINCE FOSTER

The Hope Bobcats finished their regular season Saturday, with a 57-48 district win over the Crossett Eagles, while the "B" boys won their third straight 43-30.

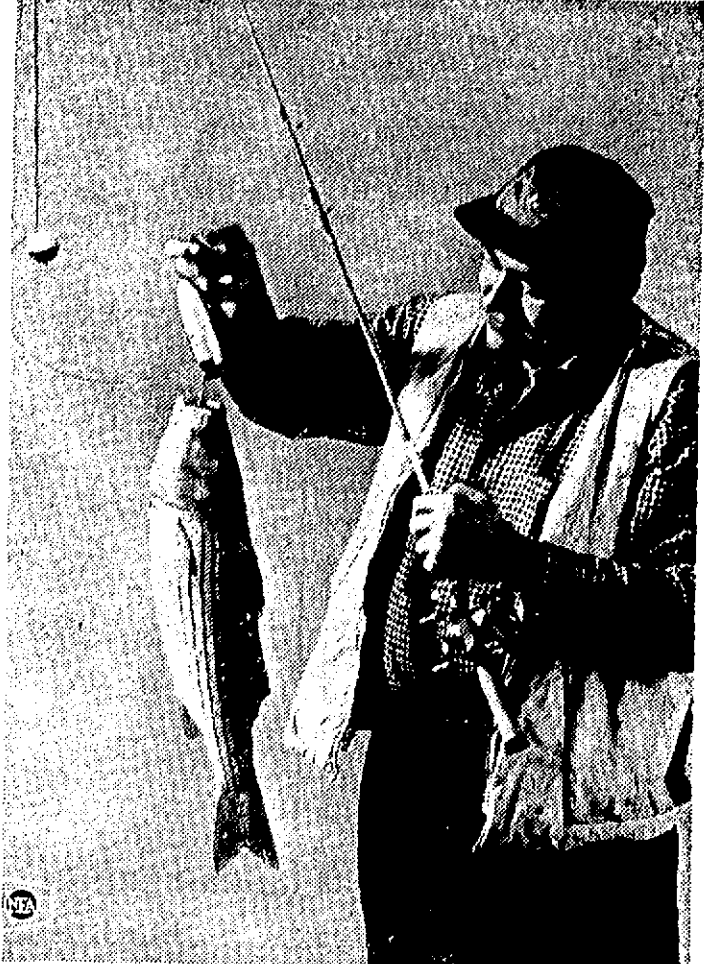

The Cats held a slight lead throughout the game until the final minutes when the Eagles tied it up. However, aided by a full court press, the locals took 7 straight points to clinch it. Hope was out front 10-8 in the first quarter, and with both teams scoring 12 in the second, Hope led 22-20 at the half. The Cats outscored the visitors 12-10 in the third period with Murphy sinking 8. He took 8 more in the final quarter to lead the Cats to a 57-48 victory.

Murphy was high with 24. Hatfield took 13. Powell 9, Russell 6, Jones 4, and McLarty 1 to complete the scoring. Johnston was high for the Eagles with 17.

The "B" team trailed 12-10 in the first quarter and 21-16 at the half. They pulled a 16 point rally in the third period to go ahead 32-21. The locals outscored the visitors 11-5 in the final quarter to win 43-36.

Purcell was high with 13, followed by Reinhardt with 7, McDowell Hughes and Thrasher with 6, Wassell 3, and Foster 2. Harris and McNelly took 10 each for Crossett.

The Cats enter the district tournament at Smackover Friday at 7 p.m. where they will meet Camden. The Cats previously beat Camden 57-41 here but lost 47-43 there. So this game will probably go to the team wanting it most. The finals are Saturday night at 8 p.m., with the consolation game beginning at 7. The Bobcats need to win two games to win the district and one game to be able to go to the state tourney, so plan to back them at Smackover.

LURED TO LAND—This angler has just landed a beauty with the help of a new motor-driven lure that does everything but gaff the fish. Powered by a flashlight battery, the lure travels underwater for as long as four hours at a stretch, emitting a buzzing sound to intrigue the quarry.

Those Buttons Fail Sometimes

But when Ralph Uribo of the New Orleans States-Item started to make the picture, the flash bulb failed to explode.

Von Braun smiled and told Uribo: "You'd be a good prospect for Huntsville. We push buttons there, too, and nothing happens."

Berg's finest horses, was one of the favorites in today's feature, the $3,000 Arkansas Handicappers and Cosmetologists Association purse, Severn, a stablemate, was paired with Mr. M. H. in the six-furlong dash. Mt. Olivet, runnerup in the Cherry Tree purse last Thursday and winner of 10 races this year, was topweighted at 122 pounds. Santiago and Mama Mac also were regarded as threats.

BATTLE LINE—A shot by Stan Mikita of the Black Hawks, top misses as the players line up in an usual fashion at the Chicago Stadium. Top to bottom, under Mikita, are Ron Stewart and Allan Stanley of Toronto, the Hawks' Bobby Hull, the Maple Leafs' Tim Horton, the Hawks' Red Hay and the Leafs' goalie John Bower.

Fayetteville Remains at Top of Polls

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fayetteville's Bulldogs hold a narrow lead in The Associated Press Arkansas high school basketball poll going into the final week of the season.

Fayetteville is 23-1 for the season, and beat out surging North Little Rock for the top spot by two thin points. The Bulldogs got five of the eight first-place votes from the board of sports writers.

Jonesboro and Little Rock Hall tied for third place and Blytheville was up a notch in fifth. Smackover moved up to sixth from eighth and Greene County Tech held seventh place.

Fort Smith pulled up to eighth from ninth and Pine Bluff occupied ninth place after losing two games last week and dropping four positions. Nashville, which beat highly-regarded Mena in a district tournament last week, moved into a tie for 10th place with Harrison.

North Little Rock, challenging Fayetteville for first place, is 16-7 for the year and has won nine straight in moving into a tie for the Big Nine Conference lead.

The results of the poll, with first place votes in parentheses and total points, based on 10 points for a first place vote, 9 for second, etc., at right:

1. Fayetteville (5) ... 75
2. North Little Rock (2) ... 73
3. Jonesboro (1) (tie) ... 61
4. Little Rock Hall (tie) ... 61
5. Blytheville ... 34
6. Smackover ... 27
7. Greene County Tech ... 23
8. Fort Smith ... 22
9. Pine Bluff ... 19
10. Nashville (tie) ... 11
11. Harrison (tie) ... 11

Others, in order: Forrest City, Manila, Paragould, Sparkman and Drew Central and White Hall.

Bradley and Delight Take State Titles

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bradley, Delight, Leslie and Mulberry won four state basketball tournaments in finals Saturday night.

Bradley beat Parkin 47-38 in the finals of the Class B Senior Girls meet in Parkin. Delight beat Lake Hamilton 45-39 in the Class B Junior Boys final in Conway.

Leslie beat Waldo 49-48 in the finals of the Class A Senior Girls meet in Mulberry and Mulberry beat Sheridan 36-35 in the Class A Junior Boys title game in Marianna.

Friday night, Jonesboro beat Conway 48-34 in the final game of the Class AA Junior Boys tournament in Leachville.

Sharon Blair sank a 20-foot shot in the last three seconds of the A Senior Girls finale to bring Leslie from one point behind. She hit 24 points altogether, and Carolyn Rowe netted 23 for Waldo.

Roger Benham scored 21 points in leading Mulberry to its one-point victory over Sheridan in the A Junior Boys game. A Sheridan player missed a jump shot under the basket with two seconds left.

Mike Lamb scored 32 points on 16 field goals in pacing Delight to its victory over Lake Hamilton. Fifteen of the goals were on jump shots from 10 to 25 feet out. Dan Sheets hit 18 for Lake Hamilton.

Bradley led all the way in beating Parkin the B Senior Girls game. Gin Hammer scored 24 for Bradley and Patsy Thompson netted 22 for the losers.

Home of the French Foreign Legion is Sidi bel Abbes, an hour's drive south from Oran, Algeria. The city was built by legionnaires as a garrison in 1847.

Amity Plays Wednesday, in State Meet

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Class A and B state high school basketball tournaments open at Barton Coliseum here today, and they shape up as two fascinating free-for-alls.

There are no clear-cut favorites, but there are many teams with sensational records, and several teams noted for their tournament prowess.

The A meet opens at 12:30 p.m. with Drew Central meeting Tucker. The B meet gets underway at 1:50 with Casa taking on Dyess. A and B games will be alternated on the coliseum hardwood through Saturday night.

Quarterfinals begin Wednesday night and semifinals are Friday.

One of the top first-round Class A games pits Manila against Monticello at 3:10 p.m. Tuesday.

Manila is ranked 13th in this week's Associated Press schoolboy cage poll, and Monticello pulled a major upset by beating White Hall (30-2) in a district meet last week. White Hall had been in the top 10 earlier in the season.

Sparkman, a team that has won 35 of its 36 games, takes on Hughes Tuesday in what should be a good Class B first rounder.

Tournament brackets weren't completed until Saturday night when district tournaments wound up. Winners and runners-up in most districts qualified for the state tournaments, but only the winners qualified in split districts.

Nettleton, which meets Clinton in a first round game tonight, is the defending Class A champion. Valley Springs, the defending Class B titlist, didn't survive the district playoffs.

Great records abound. Mt. Judea is 42-3, Scaranton is 34-6 and Mt. Pleasant is 37-1, all in Class B. Drew Central is 23-4 in Class A and Berryville is 28-4.

Here are the first round schedules:

Fog Blanket Covers Most of Arkansas

A thick blanket of fog accompanied by rain which moved into Arkansas Sunday, grounding airplanes and lowering visibility to 100 feet, is expected to remain at least through tonight.

The U.S. Weather Bureau at Little Rock reports a cold front is moving across the state also bringing thundershowers and the possibility of continued fog.

Fog-laden microwaves between a relay tower at Biscoe and Little Rock disrupted television network programming at Little Rock Sunday night.

The dense layer of fog penetrated all but the southeast corner of Arkansas Sunday, a weather bureau spokesman said.

Rainfall during the 24-hour period ending at 6 a.m. today was generally widespread over the state with Mammouth Spring reporting 3.07 inches.

Clinton recorded 2.23 inches while Salem had 2.46.

The Arkansas forecast calls for cloudy and turning much colder in the northwest today and tonight, reaching near cold wave proportions by Tuesday morning. Rain and freezing rain or snow in the northwest is likely before ending this afternoon.

Over the southeast half it's expected to be mostly cloudy, windy and mild with showers and thundershowers today, turning colder this afternoon and tonight with some light rain early tonight.
